History of the Saltworks

The sign is a green-framed informational board on two black legs. It features a central illustration of a saltworks with several windmills and buildings. The text is arranged in various boxes and sections around the illustration. The top left has a red box with the text 'Two thousand years salt making'. The top center has the title 'The Saltworkings, Lymington'. The bottom left has a white box with a map and the text 'French chart showing the saltworks in 1761'. The bottom center has a white box with the text 'The Economy'. The bottom right has a white box with the text 'History of the Saltworks'. There are also smaller images and text boxes scattered throughout the sign.
